WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 8.

FEMALE STRIKERS IN GALVESTON .- Monday night colored women, emboldened by the liberties allowed their fathers, husbands and brothers during Monday, and being of a jealous nature, determined to have a public hurrah yesterday of their own, and as the men had demanded $2 for a day's labor they would asked $1.50, or $9 per week. Their first move was against the steam laundry, corner of avenue A and Tenth street, owned by Mr. J. N. Harding, who has in his employ several women, as it happened yesterday, all white.

About half-past six a. m., colored women began collecting about his house, until they numbered about twenty-five, several men being with them. The laundry women were soon seen coming to work. When met and told that they should not work for less than $150 per day four turned back; but one, a Miss Murphy, went into the house and began working. Seeing this, the women rushed in, caught her and carried her into the street, and by threats forced her to leave. As no other laborers were found, a council of war was being held, when a colored woman passed by and entered the house to collect money for Monday's labor. The cry was raised that Alice had gone back on them, and Alice being generally obnoxious to one of two colored women, they had spite "agin Alice anyway." A rush was made for her, but Alice is not slow in her motions; therefore the first who got in reach went to grass from a well directed got in reach went to grass from a well directed day. Leave Gordonsville at 450 a.m. Monday. Wednesdays and Fridays, arriving at Alwas literally covered with women, clawing and pulling, until Alice's clothes were torn from her body and they could get no hold, then the poor woman was let up and driven cii. This success again enboldened the women to further demon-strations. The cry was raised, "Let's lock them out for good. Here's nails I brought especially.' An axelying in the word pile was grasped, and the laundry house doors and windows secured. Then off they started for the heathen Chinee, who "washes Mellican man clothes so cheapee alloe vile," but before leaving Mr. Harding was warned that this visit would be repeated at one o'clock and again to day. "Now for the Chinese; we'll drive them away." So down Market st. they went, led by a portly colored lady, whose avoirdupols is not less than 250.

On the way many expressions as to their intentions were heard, such as "We will starve no longer;" Chinese get no business coming here taking our work from us." Each California laundry was visited in turn, according to its location, beginnig at Slam Sing's, on Twentieth street, between Market and Post Office, and endiog at Wan Loong's, corner of Bath avenue and

Post Office street.
At these laundries all the women talked at At these Isundries all the women talked at once, telling Sam Lee, Slam Sing, Wan Loong and the rest that "they must close up and leave the city within fifteen days, or they would be driven away," each Chinaman responding, "Yees, yees," "allee rightee;" "me go, yees," and closed their shops.—Galveston News.
